PERSONALITY TYPE

THE CRAFTSMAN

You are an observant artisan with an understanding of mechanics and an interest in troubleshooting. You approach your environment with a flexible logic, looking for practical solutions to the problems at hand. You are independent and adaptable and typically interact with the world around you in a self-directed, spontaneous manner.

STRENGTHS

Practical and creative - Your strength is frequently seen in your technical and mechanical skills, from the tuning of a bicycle to the firing of a gun to the repair of a Formula One race car. You are masterful in the use of tools and your ability to fix, repair and make tools and machines work.

Problem-solving - You excel in problem-solving because you are able to absorb large quantities of sensory information and categorize it effectively and efficiently so it is ready to be called upon when needed, even in the heat of a stressful moment.

Common sense and world-savvy - The one thing you will never be called is gullible, as you possess a keen ability to accurately size up the character and motives of others with striking reliability.

Flexible - You do particularly well in physical endeavours of various types because you are able to insightfully size up your competition and position yourself properly in order to secure the victory.

WEAKNESSES

Insensitive - You tend toward blunt and unsweetened communication and excess of it becomes quite harsh and critical, especially if people don't meet your standards of logic and reasoning.

Risk-seeking behaviour - Your restlessness, tendency to become bored and constant pursuit of the thrill can lead you to pursue risky and even reckless behaviours, not fully weighing the costs of your actions.

Impatient - You don't deal well with the inability to move forward, make a decision or act in the moment.

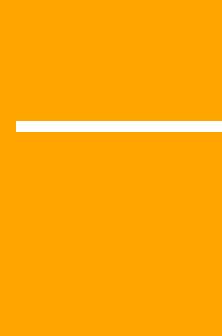

Private and reserved - You have a strong need for personal space and solitude. In and of itself, this preference need not be classified as a weakness, though problems arise when this need dominates and causes you to push others away or avoid intimacy.
