PERSONALITY TYPE

THE HEALER

Imaginative idealists, guided by their own core values and beliefs. To a Healer, possibilities are paramount; the realism of the moment is only of passing concern. They see potential for a better future, and pursue truth and meaning with their own individual flair.

STRENGTHS

Idealism - You care deeply for others and believe it is your duty to make a positive impact on the lives of other people.

Integrity - Integrity means everything to you, and that includes intellectual as well as moral integrity.

Compromise - You are highly effective as a mediator because you are legitimately interested in the viewpoints of all and will go out of your way to make sure that everyone is given a fair hearing.

Dedication - Passionate and committed to the cause, you have a unique ability to mould and shape your surrounding environment in ways that promote self-improvement and transcendent achievement for all.

WEAKNESSES

Sensitivity - Deep compassion, sensitivity and commitment to originality allows you to interface with your interpersonal landscapes in a constructive manner, but these feelings also leave you vulnerable to disillusionment and powerful existential angst.

Impracticality - While insistence on standing up for justice and decency is admirable, the intensity of your feelings can occasionally leave you unwilling to make compromises even when doing so might be necessary to get something accomplished.

Selflessness - You have a tendency to neglect or suppress own needs if you believe it is necessary to keep the peace.

Vulnerability - Compassionate to the core, you lead with your heart rather than head and this can sometimes set them up for trouble.
