PERSONALITY TYPE

THE ARCHITECT

You are a philosophical innovator, fascinated by logical analysis, systems, and design. You are preoccupied with theory, and search for the universal law behind everything you see. You want to understand the unifying themes of life, in all your complexity.

STRENGTHS

Analytical brilliance - Beneath the quiet surface sits an intellectual prowess that you bring to any environment. You are a fast thinker and highly logical.

Objective - You are respected for your relentless pursuit of truth, objectivity and understanding. You make this the goal of your life and channel your energy into rooting out errors and eliminating inconsistencies.

Imaginative - You think deeply about theory, how to understand and explain difficult concepts, and how systems and products function and might be improved.

Enthusiastic - To others, you may come across as private and withdrawn but when a topic piques your interest, you can be very enthusiastic—excited even—about discussing it.

WEAKNESSES

Uncertainty - Despite intellectual prowess, you often live in fear of failure, anxious that you will overlook some critical aspect of their theory, idea or invention.

Absent-mindedness - You aren't labelled "absentminded professors" for no reason. At your worst, you tend to be scattered and disorganised.

Condescension - A significant weakness is the tendency to be condescending and critical, either of your opponents or those who simply don't catch on as quickly as you do.

Insensitivity - You can get into trouble because of the tendency to prioritise the activity taking place in your minds over the needs of others.
